

How do you say “job well done” or “keep up the good work”? As educators, we know that praise and small rewards go a long way to motivate students. We often hear teachers say “they’ll do it for a piece of candy”. Inexpensive and non-perishable, are two reasons why candy is often the reward of choice. While one piece of licorice doesn’t amount to much, the chart below illustrates the significant amount of sugar a child can consume if one piece of candy a day is eaten for a week, a month, and a school year!

Sugar in Candy Rewards
